Miss Shattuck Dies After Church Service

Miss Blanche Shattuck, 79, who returned to her home in New York City Thursday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John S. Rice, W. Broadway, died suddenly Friday, according to word received by friends here.

Miss Shattuck, a native of Boston, who had resided in New York City for many years where she had been a history teacher at the Juillard School until her retirement, had attended church services Friday and appeared in her usual health. She left the church following the service and collapsed and died on the sidewalk outside the church.

Miss Shattuck would have been 80 years of age April 28. Funeral services will be held Monday.

CHURCHES OF COUNTY WILL MEET TUESDAY

At a meeting at 8 o'clock at the Gettysburg Church of the Brethren, pastors and lay representatives of the Protestant churches of the county will receive the report of a Steering committee named last fall to prepare for the formation of an Adams County Council of Churches.

The Steering committee was named last October and has prepared a suggested constitution and by-laws for a county council of churches in Adams County which will be submitted to Tuesday's meeting for changes or approval. Luther M. Lady, Biglerville, is chairman of that Steering committee.

Invitations to attend Tuesday's session have been sent to the pastors of the 82 Protestant churches of the county. Most of the congregations already have named laymen to represent them together with their pastor in the plans for the formation of the county council of churches.

Committee To Meet
Inviting leaders to next week's meeting, Chairman Lady wrote: "This is an important meeting for every church as we anticipate the formation of a County Council of Churches which will greatly strengthen our work and give us a united voice in dealing with problems that confront us. Make your plans to come and help yourself and cooperative Christian service in Adams County."

A special meeting of the Steering committee has been called for 7:30 o'clock that evening.

The purposes of the proposed council, as stated in the suggested constitution, follow:

Statement Of Purpose
"To express through fellowship, cooperation, and service, the essential unity of the Christian churches."

"To provide an interdenominational agency for cooperation of the congregations in Christian education, social relations, public relations, worship, evangelism, missions, world Christian fellowship, and for such services as may achieve more effectively the objectives of the Christian religion."

"To study the religious needs of the community and devise plans through which these needs can be met."

"To do for the churches such cooperative work as the congregations authorize the Council to carry on in their behalf."

41 Escape Unhurt When Big Airliner, Landing With Its Gear Jammed, Lands Safely

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Ambulances moaned and fear froze in a thousand throats as a crippled and darkened airliner floated to a landing here last night.

Thirty-eight passengers, assailed by two hours of anxiety, buried their faces in pillows.

But all 41 persons aboard the Braniff Airways plane escaped injury as the trembling craft tilted on its nose and skidded the final few feet to safety.

The pilot, Capt. R. O. Mitten-dorf, wore a big smile as he emerged from the plane. Pretty Susie Brock, the hostess, wept with relief. And Bert Hathaway, a passenger from Oklahoma City, crowded: "Everybody's happy. . . It was the most beautiful landing I've ever seen!"

Landing Gear Jams
The plane, a two-engine Convair 340, began its flight at Cor-

DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OK'D BY COURT

The Adams County court has given its approval to the incorporation of the Littlestown Industrial Development Corporation, according to papers filed today with the county prothonotary.

The court had delayed its approval to permit an amendment to be filed Thursday. The amendment to the articles of incorporation permit the non-profit group to "assist, improve and develop existing industries and to assist proposed and projected industrial development in the Littlestown area by the acquisition and improvement of sites for and erection of buildings thereon for the operation of industries and . . . to qualify as an 'industrial development agency' under the Pennsylvania Industrial Authority act."

A section permitting the drawing up of bylaws to designate the rights, duties, etc., of "classes of membership" was also included in the amendment.

The incorporators of the planned Littlestown Industrial Development Corporation are Clarence L. Schwartz, Nevaeh A. Crouse, Robert J. Stonesifer, Vernon C. Reaver, G. A. Royston, W. E. Mackley, John D. Basehoar and Marvin F. Breighner.

Young Republicans To Meet Wednesday

Candidates for county and local offices and have been invited to attend the meeting of the Adams County Young Republicans Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the American Legion Home, Baltimore St. Jacob W. Menges, secretary, announced today.

CUTS TONGUE

David Strausbaugh, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Strausbaugh, R. 2, was treated at the Warner Hospital Friday for laceration to the tip of his tongue.

Ditto Holdup

CRANSTON, R. I. (AP)—Seven months ago three gunmen robbed the Great Scott Market of $13,000.

Store manager Thomas Bannister, 46, was the victim then as he delivered a meat order to a customer at 10:50 p.m. The trio forced Bannister to lie on an automobile floor, drove back to the market and forced him to open two safes.

Then that night of Sept. 15, the men walked the store manager to a nearby vacant lot, tied his hands and left him.

Last night the story was repeated—with but minor exceptions.

This time: Two men . . . about a half-hour earlier in the night . . . $12,000 taken.

Otherwise—Ditto.

Easter Finery May Get Wet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Your Easter finery may get wet tomorrow. The U.S. Weather Bureau says the outlook is for showers in many parts of the nation, offset by periods of sunshine and spring-like temperatures.

In the East and South, the forecast is for scattered afternoon or evening showers and a general pattern of fair, unseasonably warm weather.

The Bureau said light rain is likely in the Western Plains from North Dakota to northwest Nebraska, and scattered thunder-showers may continue in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri areas.

The Easter Sunday forecast called for seasonably cool weather west of the Rockies, scattered showers in the Rockies and north Pacific coastal areas, and a mixture of sunshine and cloudiness in the Midwest.

Temperatures are expected to hover in the 50s in the northern tier of states from the Great Lakes to the northern Rockies.

Presbyterians To Hold Two Services

Two services will be held Easter Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church here. There will be a service at 9:15 and a second at 10:45 o'clock. Sunday School will begin at 9:15 instead of the usual 9:30 o'clock.

Prof. Bruce Morgan of the faculty of Wilson College at Chambersburg will preach at both services. The sacrament of baptism will be observed at the first service.

TO SHOW SLIDES

Dr. R. D. Wickerham will show slides on his trip to Jasper National Park in Canada at the Monday evening dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions Club at the Shetter House. The meeting will begin at 6 o'clock. A meeting of the Minstrel Show Program committee will be held during the dinner.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Cast-town Fire Company will hold a regular meeting Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Each member is asked to bring a decorated hat for sale at that meeting.

NAME OMITTED

The name of Jane Lawver was omitted from the list of characters for the pageant "Commission of the Angels," which will be presented by St. James Lutheran Sunday School Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Girl Badly Hurt In Cross Keys Crash

Mary Ann Martin, 18, Hanover R. 3, suffered a possible fracture of the skull when two cars collided at the Cross Keys intersection at 3:55 o'clock this morning.

Removed to the Hanover Hospital by a passing motorist, the young woman was found upon admission there to have a concussion, contusions of the forehead, a laceration of the chin and the possible skull fracture.

She was the only one hurt, state police said, when a car driven by Francis L. Myers, 23, Hanover R. 3, traveling north on the Hanover-Carlisle Rd., entered the intersection, turned east on the Lincoln Highway and was struck in the rear by an east-bound car driven by Walter C. Kline, 28, Gardners R. 2. The young woman was a passenger in the Kline car.

Damage was estimated at $200 to Myers' vehicle and $500 to Kline's sedan.

PORTLAND D.A. AND 2 OTHERS ARE INDICTED

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Portland Dist. Atty. William Langley and two other men were indicted by a county Grand Jury last night on charges of illegally obtaining a set of wire recordings.

The others indicted are Sheriff's Deputy George Minelly and Oregon Journal reporter Arthur (Brad) Williams.

The indictments against Langley, Minelly and Williams were among 21 returned by the Grand Jury yesterday. Other indictments are to be served on Monday.

The indictment against Langley is the eighth returned against him in the year-long Portland vice investigation. He has been convicted on one charge — failing to prosecute gamblers — and is awaiting sentence.

Accused of Conspiracy
Yesterday's indictment accuses him of conspiracy with Portland Mayor Terry Schruk, executives and reporters of the Oregon Journal and others to set up an illegal raid to obtain and make copies of the tapes.

Named as conspirators were William W. Knight, publisher of the Oregon Journal, and Arden K. Pangborn, editor of the afternoon newspaper. Also named were reporters Williams, Rolla Crick and Doug Baker. Deputy Dist. Atty. Howard Longman, and Clyde C. Crosby, international representatives for the Teamster Union in Oregon.

There was no indication that the persons named as conspirators would be indicted, however. Langley's indictment said that Knight and Pangborn had typewritten copies made of information contained in the tapes. The Journal has denied any wrongdoing.

SUITOR KILLS GIRL, SUICIDES

By ED MARTIN

COVE, Ark. (AP) — Moments after pretty Helen Griffith left a church here last night, six pistol shots blasted the Holy Week service and the 20-year-old girl fell fatally wounded in the aisle.

The shots were fired through a window of the Hilltop Holiness Church in this West Arkansas mountain town. Another member of the congregation, a 61-year-old man, was wounded in the left leg during the firing.

Several persons rushed to the door in time to see a man leap into a pickup truck and flee.

Little more than an hour later, officers here were notified that Haskell Sullivan, 25, a rejected suitor of the dead girl, had killed himself in front of his brother's house at Nano Chito, Okla., 20 miles from Cove.

Sheriff's officers of McCurtain County, Okla., said Sullivan's body was found in his pickup truck outside the home of J. L. Sullivan. He had been shot between the eyes with a .22 pistol, apparently the same weapon which killed Miss Griffith, officers reported.

Sullivan left a note. It said: "I killed Helen and I'm going with her."

Officers said the blonde, blue-eyed girl was shot twice in the face and twice in the back.

Plane Is Damaged, Passengers Unhurt

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-four persons aboard a Sabena Belgian Airlines plane from Brussels escaped injury today when the nose wheel of the DC7C collapsed as the craft landed at Idlewild Airport with 26 passengers and a crew of eight.

Capt. John Smith, of Brussels, who piloted the airliner, told reporters he had feathered the No. 4 engine before coming in for the landing. He said that everything was "normal" until the plane's nose suddenly went down as the plane taxied along the runway.

Passengers on the airliner reported that while there was a thumping when the plane's nose went down, the experience was not too bad.

No estimate of the damage to the plane, a new craft, was announced. The plane reportedly cost about 1½ million dollars.

WASHINGTON (AP) — After nearly two months of talks, negotiators are reported close to agreement on a program of U.S. aid to Communist Poland. The figure being mentioned is 100 million dollars.

Diplomatic sources said yesterday the deal may be completed by May 10. A Polish economic mission has been here since February.

LONDON (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman was accused today by a member of Parliament of "making mischief" in the Mediterranean by inviting Archbishop Makarios to visit New York.

Paul Williams, leader in the right-wing bloc of Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative party, said the invitation "casts doubt on the wisdom of the Makarios release."

"Cyprus is not yet an American colony," he declared.

MAN DRAGGED 1,200 FEET AND DRIVER FLEES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — First attempts by a psychiatrist to question witnesses under hypnosis have failed to yield any new clues to the brutal hit-run slaying of a San Francisco man.

The doctor, who insisted he remain unnamed, yesterday told police further efforts "might produce better results."

Lloyd V. Stephens, 62, was struck down at a San Francisco intersection and dragged 1,200 feet by a car. The car's path was traced in blood as the driver sought to dislodge the body by alternately speeding up and slamming on the brakes.

"Grisley Episode"
Some 50 horrified persons saw the grisley episode.

One witness, Bonifacio Silverio, gave police a partial license number. He was one of four persons questioned under hypnosis by the doctor, who sought to discover the entire number from Silverio's subconscious mind.

Cornelius Lynch, a city fireman who chased the car in vain, also was questioned.

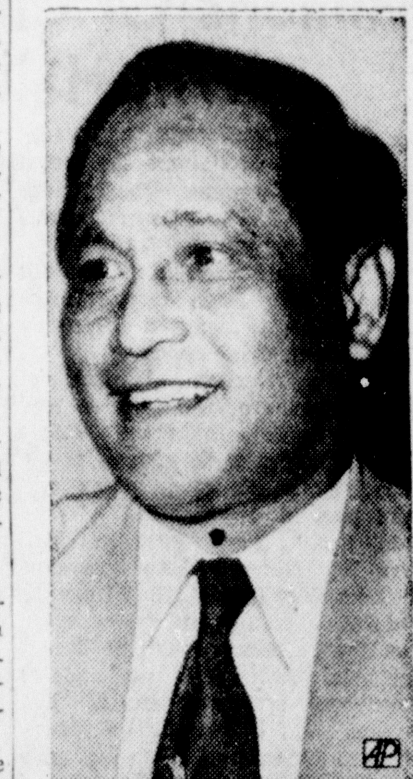

Police Lt. Edward Moody said the questioning revealed "no significant new information."

FRENCH BUBBLE — Three skirts of different lengths, rounded over the hips, create the Paris "bubble" silhouette in this white lace dress by Jacques Heim.

TAKES OVER — Carlos P. Garcia has succeeded to the presidency of the Philippines following the plane-crash death of President Ramon Magasayay on Cebu Island recently.

Tass, the Soviet official news agency, recently reported the opening of the first line of Leningrad's first subway system. The completed section covers five districts of Russia's second-largest city. Trains run at four-minute intervals at a speed of thirty miles an hour from the center of the city to the outskirts. Lately the ornate Moscow subway built under Stalin's supervision has been severely criticized by Communist Party officials for "palatial style" and unjustified architectural extravagances.

And now the new Leningrad subway, although much more simply designed, has nevertheless also come in for unfavorable comment. "Trud," the Russian trade union paper, described the stations on the new line as "underground palaces with crystal, mosaics and statues," decorations not at all in keeping with the present Party's drive against over-ornamentation and wastefulness.

Riders on New York's subways may be grateful that subway authorities squelched a scheme dreamed up by an advertising firm to add scent to the underground network. It wasn't French perfume (such as Paris subways tried out not long ago) that they had in mind, but garlic. Seems the promotion boys thought spaghetti ad scented with garlic would have irresistible appeal.

Four circus attendants, who thought they knew the perfect place to hide stolen goods, discovered they had not reckoned with determination and fearlessness of duty of a railway policeman. Near Johannesburg, Africa, recently, the four roustabouts stole twenty-five blankets from a freight train and hid their loot in a truck housing eight lions. When search for the stolen goods led the railway cop to the big cats' truck, in he went and recovered the blankets. The four confessed and were given plenty of time in prison to ponder the futility of trying to stop a railway policeman in his tracks. Even with a pride of lions.

A thief who recently snatched a knapsack in the railroad station at Osaka, Japan, probably got the surprise of his life. Inside the knapsack were twelve live snakes destined to be used in making medicine.

Dachshund is the amiable little clown of the canine world that's as lo-o-o-o-ng as his name! He is the elongated, low-slung fellow that, while he has been on the receiving end of a multitude of jokes, is so lovable many Dachsie enthusiasts own two or more of them. Yes, they call him the "wiener dog" and they say he is "half-a-dog high and a dog-and-a-half long," yet no one could harbor a really mean thought while watching the animated antics of the wee waddler.

Originally, the Dachshund was developed for badger hunting. To cope with that wily animal, a dog had to be small. He would need powerful paws and jaws. And he would require the courage of a lion. Our tiny streamliner admirably filled each requirement and today he has several centuries of successful badger-hunting experience behind him. We say "behind him" because, while he is still used as a hunting dog in his native Germany and frequently acquires himself rather well here as a rabbit and pheasant dog, the Dachsie really is an old-time hunter who has found new glory in his "retirement." In his modern role as a charming, loving, affectionate companion, the Dachshund has won the hearts of thousands of American families and is fifth in rank among dogs registered with the American Kennel Club.

Our Dachshunds range from 8 to 12 inches in height and weigh from 15 to 25 pounds. The miniature Dachsie, of course, is a nine-pounder or even less, and while these "peanut-sized" members of the breed are becoming more and more popular, most of the Dachshunds you are apt to see are the middle-sized, smooth-coated type. They also may be wirehairs or longhairs and their colors vary from black or chocolate with tan points to several solid reds (tan).

As if his waggish nature, loyalty and intelligence were not enough to insure his solid place in the home, Dachsie—especially the smooth-haired fellows—requires practically no grooming. He is so clean there is scarcely a hint of dog odor and he doesn't shed hair all over the living room chairs. Little wonder the ladies are so fond of the "tiny clown."

News Briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — German baritone Hermann Uhde turned out an operatic juggler at the Metropolitan yesterday and sang two roles in the Good Friday performance of Wagner's "Parsifal." Uhde switched back and forth from the saintly part of Amfortas to the wicked role of Klingsor. His vocal versatility was prompted by the sudden illness of George London, the baritone scheduled to handle the Amfortas role.

CHURCH PLANS
ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCE

Plans are being made for the anniversary observance of Redeemer's Evangelical and Reformed Church. The first of the anniversary events will be the annual Christian family night covered dish supper on Thursday, May 9, 6:30 p.m., in the church social hall. The meal is in charge of a committee from the Women's Guild and details will be announced later.

The Singing Juniors will present their first concert at 8 p.m., following the family night covered dish supper. The concert will be given in the church auditorium. The Singing Juniors are directed by the pastor, the Rev. Porter W. Seiwel. Mrs. Jay R. Crouse is organist.

On Sunday, May 26, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, a former pastor, now pastor of St. Andrew's Reformed Church, Reading, will deliver the sermon at the 10:30 a.m. worship. The Rev. Mr. Reynolds concluded his pastorate here in September, 1954. The Rev. Theodore Woodrow Boltz, now of Passaic, N. J., who preceded the Rev. Mr. Reynolds as pastor, will return to present the sermon for Sunday, June 2. The committee in charge of general arrangements for the anniversary observance is headed by Kenneth K. Kroh.

Services Well Attended
The annual Good Friday three-hour devotion, held in Centenary Methodist Church, were well attended. The service, from 12 noon to 3 p.m., was based on "The Seven Last Words of Christ From the Cross," and was sponsored by the Littlestown Ministerium. Special music including the following vocal solos: During the second word, Mrs. Luther D. Snyder sang "All On An April Evening"; fourth word, Gary Streis sang "The Holy City"; sixth word, Ronald Ruggles sang "Robe of Calvary." Miss Jane Barton, organist at Centenary Church, presided at the console for the first four portions of the devotion and Mrs. Winfield A. Lippy, organist at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, played for the last three parts. Ministers participating were the Rev. Porter W. Seiwel, the Rev. G. Howard Koons, the Rev. William C. Korns, the Rev. David S. Kammerer, the Rev. Rodney T. Yates, the Rev. Oscar E. Freeman and the Rev. Mark B. Michael.

Banquet May 9
The annual mother and daughter banquet of Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church will be held on Thursday, May 9, at 6:30 p.m., in Grace Lutheran Church parish hall, 200 Taverne. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 65 cents for children. Ticket reservations will be received by Mrs. Harry C. Wildason, tomorrow. The program committee is composed of Mrs. Charles A. Grove, Mrs. Richard E. Barnes and Mrs. Orville C. Sentz, and the favors committee includes Mrs. Gerald W. Sterner, Mrs. David E. Greason and Mrs. Edward L. Warner.

A food sale will be held by the Littlestown Junior Chamber of Commerce next Friday, April 26, starting at 3:30 p.m., in the engine house. Soups, sandwiches and baked items will be available. Orders may be placed in advance with one of the following committee: Emerson F. Muller, Thomas E. Craig, Ralph C. Unger and Clyde Bucher. Mrs. William W. Seibert will be in charge of the program for presentation at the April meeting of the Women's Guild of Redeemer's Reformed Church at 7:30 p.m., Monday, in the church social hall.

"SONG OF EASTER"

The song of Easter is composed of faith and real good will... each note supplies a world of hope... the melody is one of love... and tenderness sublime... that echoes in the hearts of men... and will throughout all time... the song of Easter tells the world... that Christ rose from the dead... with wounds upon His hands and feet... and round His blessed head... ring out, sweet bells, proclaim this day... when smiles light every face... can thank be to God that we can feel... the warmth of His embrace... for Easter is a joyful time... when brotherhood's ablaze... the song of Easter tells of peace... and so we sing its praise.

Large congregations attended the Maundy Thursday preparatory service and Good Friday Holy Communion in Christ Church. On Thursday, a women's trio, composed of Mrs. Paul J. Mummert, Mrs. Charles A. Grove and Mrs. Harold E. Shoemaker sang "Were You There." The Lenten offering envelopes were received for the building fund. The pastor, the Rev. G. Howard Koons, announced that the Confirmation Class will commune at the first table on Easter Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Parents who plan to have their children attend the community recreation program, starting the week of June 17 at the local playground, are asked to register them on Thursday and Friday, May 2 and 3, from 2 to 4 p.m., with Paul E. King, supervising principal of the Littlestown Jointure, at the high school office. The recreation program is being sponsored by the Littlestown Borough School Board. A daily attendance of not less than 60 children must be maintained for the program to continue each week from 9 to 12 a.m.

SUSPECT DIES;
DENIES MURDER

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (P)—Woodrow Matthews died yesterday, insisting to the end he had not killed his wife and children found dead in their explosion-wrecked home. Matthews, 42, admitted from his deathbed, however, that he had tried to kill himself after realizing his family was gone. Dist. Atty. Louis M. Greenblatt said.

Matthews suffered burns over 70 per cent of his body in the pre-dawn blast Wednesday. There were several puncture wounds in his chest and neck, self-inflicted by a screwdriver, he claimed. The bodies of Mrs. Ella Matthews, 38, the couple's daughter, Alma, 14, and their son, Carl, 10, were found in the wreckage of the two-story farm house. Coroner Vincent Maddi said Thursday the three died of stab wounds. He said they were dead before the fire that followed the gas explosion but it had not been determined whether they died before the blast.

Meanwhile, authorities said Matthews had suffered "great shame" because, they said, Alma recently had been expelled from high school on the ground she had posed for nude photographs. The pictures were sold to other pupils, police said.

WASHINGTON (P)—American export of coal to Europe continues to have "great possibilities," members of a delegation of Polish coal mining officials agreed Friday. Jan Miroslaw, director of coal vein exploitation, and Zbigniew Boratynski, Poland's chief engineer of mines, said Polish export of coal this year is expected to drop.

That leaves new margins for American expansion in the European market, they indicated.

SERVICES HELD
AT ST. ALOYSIUS

The solemn liturgy of Our Lord's Passion and Death, which formed the Good Friday service in St. Aloysius Catholic Church Friday evening, was divided into four parts. The first portion of the liturgical service was the readings by priest and choir and the reading of the Passion according to St. John; the second part was the solemn prayers of the faithful for the Holy Church, the Supreme Pontiff, for all orders and degrees of the faithful, for civil authorities; for catechumens; for the needs of the faithful, for the unity of the church, for the conversion of Jews and the conversion of pagans.

The third part of the service was the solemn adoration of the Holy Cross, which was uncovered with special ceremonies, and everyone in the church, priests and people, kissed the crucifix. Conclusion of the service was the Communion of the priest and the faithful. The offering received on Good Friday was for the Holy Places.

Easter vigil services will begin at 11 o'clock tonight, and the Easter vigil mass is planned for approximately midnight. There will also be a high mass at 7:30 a.m. Easter Sunday, and a low mass at 10:30 a.m.

Special Service
There will be a meeting of the Southern Agriculture 4-H Club on Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Douglas Gitt, near town. Election of officers will take place during the business session. Boys interested in the 4-H program are invited to be present.

A special Easter morning service in celebration of Our Lord's Resurrection will be held in St. John's Lutheran Church at 8 a.m., tomorrow. The service will follow the 24-hour prayer vigil. Special music at the service will be as follows: Anthem, "All Hail Resurrection Morn," by the Senior Choir; anthem, "On the Wings of the Living Lord," by the Youth Choir; selection, "Our Living Lord," by the Brotherhood quartet, composed of Ronald W. Strevig, Albert J. Starnier, Edgar E. Yealy and Alvin J. Groff. The choir will not rehearse next Wednesday, as previously announced, due to a dance to be held by the Luther League.

Says 40 Millions
Will Move In 1957

LOS ANGELES (P)—Anyone who thinks America has lost its "git up and go" spirit hasn't talked to James D. Edgett of Fort Wayne, Ind. Edgett, president of North American Van Lines, Inc., said yesterday some 40 million Americans will move during the year, continuing a trend that has made the moving industry a 600 million dollar a year business.

42 WHO BOMBED
TOKYO REUNITE

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (P)—Forty-two of the nation's best remembered aviators water skied, fished and lolled on the Gulf beaches today near this base where 15 years ago they were in the deadly serious business of preparing to bomb the heart of Japan.

They are the Tokyo raiders—crew members of the bombers which rained 32,000 pounds of bombs on Tokyo, Nagoya and Kobe April 18, 1942, in the allies' first thrust at the Japanese mainland during World War II.

Eglin Air Force Base was a final stop for the 80 raiders before the daring strike. They received special training here for aircraft carrier takeoffs.

Survivors of the 16-plane mission have held their reunions each year but this is the first time they have returned to Eglin.

In the raid they flew about 670 miles from the carrier Hornet and unloaded their bombs, but virtually all the planes crashed in the sea or in China after the crewmen bailed out.

Of the 80 men, seven died as a result of the raid. Sixteen have since died, leaving 57 survivors.

The raid's command pilot, Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, arrived last night for the get-together, which ends tomorrow.

Cloudbursts, High Winds,
And Tornado Strike Texas

DALLAS (P)—Heavy cloudbursts and high winds lashed north central Texas for the second straight day today, flooding highways and driving streams out of their banks in some areas.

A tornado struck ground near Dallas as the turbulence swept northeastward, but no injuries or damage was reported.

Torrential rains that flooded parts of Waco last night tapered off, but continued today. The Department of Public Safety said motorists were warned that high-way travel on some roads between Dallas, Fort Worth and Weatherford, and south on U. S. 81 through Waco was inadvisable. Highways 77 and 81 were closed by high water in some areas near Waco.

Report Twister
The Tarrant County sheriff's office in Fort Worth said a small twister developed near Midlothian, Tex., near Dallas early today veered westward and north of Irving, and hit the ground northwest of Dallas before disappearing. A report of another funnel over Dallas was not confirmed.

Torrential rains, hail and high winds lashed the city of Dallas, causing a power failure in a small downtown area. Most of the heavy turbulence, however, swept past the city before dawn and the weather bureau lifted the tornado and severe weather alert for Tarrant County and Dallas.

Heavy black thunderheads rumbled across the northern part of the state and into parts of east Texas, touching off electric storms and cloudbursts.

See Seven Tornadoes
Rivers in south Texas were expected at flood stages today following heavy rains yesterday and last night. Seven tornadoes were reported sighted over the state yesterday.

A rain-swollen creek overflowed its banks in Waco last night pouring water three to six feet deep in 15 city blocks. Between 150 and 200 persons were evacuated from the low area along the creek. Much of the water drained away within a few hours, however.

The cloudbursts sent rivers on the rise over much of the state. One man was feared drowned near Abilene.

Three other persons were washed off State Highway 6 some 12 miles southeast of Waco, including two teenagers.

Charles Dieterich, a farmer, was swept into shallow water at a creek near Riesel, Tex.

He sat on top of his car until a boat arrived.

2 Teen-agers Stranded
Two teen-agers were stranded for three hours last night by flood waters on State Highway 6 some 12 miles southeast of Waco.

Mike Jordan, 18, and Brenda Roberson, both of Riesel, Tex., were rescued after they abandoned their car and hung on to trees until rescuers arrived.

Their car was washed some 125 feet from the highway and overturned once. Both escaped with minor scratches, but were being treated for shock. They said the rising water just gradually covered the car and they evacuated it.

Fifth Avenue will see its usual throng of Easter paraders. Hundreds of thousands are expected to witness other Easter parades on the broadwalks of Asbury Park and Atlantic City in New Jersey.

In Philadelphia, rock 'n' roll stage shows scheduled at two theaters for Easter Sunday were cancelled by the managements at the request of Mayor Richardson Dilworth. The mayor said he thought the shows "clearly inappropriate" for the day.

Street Service
Among scores of sunrise observances in the Philadelphia area will be a huge street service conducted by Dr. Ross Silver, Messiah Lutheran Church pastor, who pioneered the idea 23 years ago.

The place where the sun first touches the United States will be the scene of one of the Easter sunrise services. That is the top of minister to Cairo. The New York Daily News, which published what it described as Norman's suicide notes, replied to the Canadian embassy charges with a statement saying the texts were obtained in Cairo by its correspondent, Reynolds Packard. The Daily News said the texts "were translations of Arabic copies made of the letters while the Cairo police were holding them during their investigation."

Some Minor Errors
The newspaper's statement added: "In his cable containing the letters, Packard said: 'The following texts are translations back into English from the Arabic translation of the original English of Norman's letters.'"

"Minor errors, but only minor, might arise from a double translation."

The Canadian embassy statement issued earlier said the two published notes "bear no relation" to the originals, which it said are in the possession of the Canadian department of external affairs.

"The only conclusion which can be drawn is that the texts... are complete fabrications," the embassy added.

COAL OPERATOR
SAYS HE CAN PUT OUT MINE BLAZE

HARRISBURG (P)—A coal operator told the State Sanitary Board Thursday that a strip mining project proposed by his firm would put out an underground mine fire near Cold Stream in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

"I think the fire can be put out in the course of four operations," said Max Rice, a partner in the Rice Bros. Coal Co., Philadelphia.

Rice raised the possibility that in the event the fire isn't checked now it could spread to veins of coal beneath the borough.

He made his remarks as the board took testimony on whether strip mining would pollute the Cold Stream watershed, thus endangering the water supply to area residents.

Edward Boulton, manager of the Citizens Water Service Co., Philadelphia, testified there was a danger of pollution and that he disagreed with Rice on the means of controlling the mine fire.

Fear Water Supply
Instead, Boulton suggested the State Mines Department attack the blaze, limiting its stripping to the fire area alone.

"The danger of the mine fire," Boulton said, "might warrant a state expenditure and project to strip out the area in which it is burning."

He added he didn't think "surface disruption" from such a project would threaten the water supply.

"Our only source for water supply furnished the area is Cold Stream," Boulton noted.

Rice and Allen Butler, firm engineer, told the board a plan had been drafted to eliminate drainage from the stripping operation so as to avoid pollution of the stream. It would include channeling drainage through an outlet to be built into Moshannon Creek.

Kenneth W. Chandler, a borough councilman, and Atty. Richard Sharp, solicitor, said they attended the meeting only as observers and not in protest of the proposed operation.

AP CITED FOR NEWS ON REVOLT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (P)—An Associated Press newsmen and the Columbia Broadcasting System have been cited by the National Headliner Club for "outstanding coverage" of the Hungarian revolt last October.

AP staffer Andre Marton and CBS were two of the 22 winners of the club's 23rd annual awards for journalistic achievement, announced yesterday.

Marton was cited for outstanding coverage of a major foreign news story—"For his beat on the Hungarian revolt." Earlier he received a special George Polk award from Long Island University for his eyewitness account of the massacre in Parliament Square, Budapest.

CBS was cited for outstanding network television coverage of a news event, the revolt itself.

Other winners included: Outstanding television news coverage—KDKA, Pittsburgh, and news director Bill Burns for the general calibre of its daily news telecast and specifically its reporting of an airliner crash.

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Actor Cary Grant took a brief time out from movie making to have a small, nonmalignant tumor removed from his forehead.

A studio physician said Grant had the growth, a benign lipoma, for seven years and it never bothered him. He returned to the studio after the operation was performed yesterday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

"Pop" Dies Friday;
He Was Celebrity

NORTH PLAINFIELD, N. J. (P)—Pop died yesterday some three months after he became a celebrity by trying to drag a wire through a pipe under the New Jersey Turnpike.

Pop was a mongoose or a ferret—the matter never was settled.

A Fire Department employee harnessed him up last January to help run a cable under the turnpike for a fire alarm system in a Woodbridge housing development.

Rats were turned loose in the 730-foot pipe to lure him through and he was spurred by blasts of compressed air. But each time Pop either failed to appear at the other end or slipped his harness and came out naked.

The wire finally was snaked through by mechanical means.

A BIT MORE OF TIME CONFUSION

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced an innovation yesterday designed to eliminate a lot of extra waiting in its waiting rooms this summer.

For the first time, starting April 28, the railroad will use Daylight Saving time on all its public time tables, station clocks, bulletin boards, train gate signs, reserved space tickets and station loud-speaker announcements.

Trainmen themselves will continue to follow standard time on the more detailed operating time tables used by railroad employees.

J. Benton Jones, PRR vice president, said he explained this to meet provisions of the Standard Time Act, which requires all interstate public transportation to observe standard time.

But as far as the public is concerned, there should be no more occasion for that mad dash to the station for a "2:15" train; only 2:15 and the station clock only 1:15, until Oct. 27 on the PRR all the times for the customer will be Daylight Saving.

Nearly all territory covered by the Pennsylvania tracks operates on Daylight Saving time. For certain terminals where it connects with other railroads serving standard time areas of the South and West, the public timetables will show arrivals and departures in both times.

CHICAGO (P)—The law firm of Adlai Stevenson is merging with a large New York firm to enable the twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate to "serve his clients better."

A member of the Stevenson firm, who asked that his name not be used, said last night that the firm will merge with Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison of New York City.

Little Wooden Mayflower II
Ready To Sail For AmericaASK LAW SCHOOL DEANS HOW TO BETTER PARDONS

HARRISBURG (P)—Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron) said Friday the deans of Pennsylvania's six law schools have been asked to offer suggestions on improving the State pardons and parole systems.

"I personally asked the Joint State Government Commission to solicit the information from the college deans," Tompkins said.

Tompkins made the request in line with his position as chairman of a legislative committee which has been probing the State Pardons Board for the last seven weeks.

The committee recessed for Easter and will return to Harrisburg Monday for further public hearings.

"I felt that we should get this cross-section of thinking from these deans in order that it might help us make our committee report," Tompkins said.

Seek Improvements
"After I made the request, I gave the matter no more thought until I just today learned that the commission had contacted the deans," he added.

The deans were asked for suggestions on improving the system from the constitutional, statutory and procedural standpoints.

The deans asked were from: University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, University of Pittsburgh, Duquesne University, Dickinson College and Villanova University.

"I feel that the committee when it makes its report should not just condemn things without offering proposed legislation that would improve the system," Tompkins said. "By asking these deans for their ideas, I feel we will have a lot more to base our conclusions on," he said, adding:

Want Deans' Opinions
"After all, during the public hearings we have heard from judges, lawyers, district attorneys and others in public life connected with the Pardons Board.

"Now to round out the suggestions, I feel we definitely should have the opinions of the deans."

He said each of the deans was told that his suggestions would not be associated with his name.

"I asked the commission to promise that there would be no direct connection made public between the suggestion and the suggestor unless they requested it," Tompkins explained.

PLYMOUTH, England (P)—The little wooden ship Mayflower II bobbed in Plymouth Harbor today awaiting a fresh wind to begin a Pilgrim-patterned voyage to the new world.

"We'll be off the moment conditions give the sails half a chance," said Cmdr. Alan Villiers, the Australian skipper. "... Old sea captains didn't set a definite hour for sailing, and I'm not going to."

Dawn today found the weather clear in Plymouth with a fair breeze. Yesterday, with the wind about zero, Villiers described the weather as "too damned perfect."

Need Nice Wind
"What we need," he said, "is some wind. Not a hurricane but a fresh easterly blow."

Whatever happens, the 20th century pilgrims aboard the new Mayflower were saying goodbye today to this old town where the Pilgrim fathers set sail in 1620 on their 65-day voyage to Plymouth, Mass.

A little splinter of granite chiseled from the Plymouth Rock of Massachusetts was to be presented to Villiers at a farewell ceremony—the idea being that the bit of stone wants to get back to its proper place and that it will lead Mayflower II across the sea to Plymouth Rock.

Six-Week Cruise
The 32 men in the modern Mayflower hope to make the crossing in about six weeks.

Their ship is an almost exact replica of the first Mayflower—90 feet long, 26 feet wide and with 80-foot masts. There are a few concessions to comfort, but the modern Pilgrims are traveling as their forefathers did, with sail only.

The Mayflower II has a modern radar in event of trouble.

Easter Bunny And Santa Claus Team Up

PHILADELPHIA (P)—When he hops into a suburban Media home today, the Easter bunny will meet a stranger—Santa Claus.

Santa and the bunny are getting together to welcome 9-year-old Vera Lee Zurzolo home from Children's Heart Hospital here where she was taken June 29, 1956, seriously ill with rheumatic fever.

Now Vera Lee's heart has healed and her parents have set the stage for the "real" Christmas they promised her.

The day is a surprise for Vera Lee who didn't even know she was due to go home today. There is a Christmas tree and a pile of gifts.

In the dining room is a big Easter basket with candies and decorated eggs.

Spreading Fires Threaten Eight Leaky Tanks Of High Octane Gas In Texas City: 650 Dead And 3,000 Injured: Texas City, Tex.; April 7 (AP) — Rumbling oil fires sending walls of black smoke a mile high crept close to eight leaking tanks of high octane gasoline here today and Texas City, rocked yesterday and today by five major explosions, waited tensely for more.

The death toll stood at an estimated 650, with 3,000 injured, according to Dr. Clarence Quinn, medical coordinator appointed by Mayor J. C. Trahan.

Deputy Constable Herbert Whit of Texas City was in danger. The harbor area was being evacuated of rescue and relief workers. No effort is being made to extinguish the oil fires, but firemen are keeping it from spreading to nearby residential and business sections.

The city's 15,000 residents had dwindled to about 1,000 today. Three new explosions rocked this Texas coastal industrial city today. They followed the two yesterday morning that set off the chain of disaster and tragedy described as the worst in Texas in a half century.

The burning nitrate-laden freighter High Flyer blew up this morning as tugs tried to tow her away from the docks. The explosion was one of a series which began yesterday with a fire on another nitrate-laden ship — the French freighter Grandcamp.

BUILD A RESERVE

We cannot predict very far ahead as to our fortune or security no matter how wise we may think we are. Trouble, sorrow, a dire emergency—we are wise to prepare for them all by building a reserve applicable to whatever may befall us. Money alone cannot meet all of these. There must be a mental and spiritual reserve.

I have seen many a boxing bout in which one of the contestants is knocked down, but who rises to win the contest. Reserve strength did the job. How many a man in business has failed, time and again, only to take a fresh start—and win the day!

Our health is not guaranteed to us, so it is wise to be protected with insurance or a savings account. We never know when it may come in as a life-saver! Napoleon won his greatest victories with his reserve troops. We think better, live better, and feel better with a good reserve in the bank.

We grow weaker and less efficient when we have no reserve, either of mind or health. Mentally may be that will to live, that anyone may have. It is a reserve that does not easily fail.

Build that reserve, be it mental, physical or spiritual. When the emergency comes, then you need have no fear. Most races are won with reserve strength, and this is true of the race of life as well as that of a horse or athlete.

Anyone feels better with a ten-dollar bill in his pocket. A t least he is assured of the next meal! I believe the most important reserve, however, to be the spiritual one, where a person gives his best each day, knowing that his Heavenly Father will take care of him and give him guidance to his heart's desire.

PARENTAL PRIDE

I've watched the parents as they've smiled,
And wished the thrill could last,
When they have their clever child
Among the school play's cast.

I've seen their grins of pride grow wide
As in their chairs they've sat.
But heroes never win such pride
That truly equals that.

Men do great deeds deserving praise,
They serve some worthy cause,
But no grownup can ever raise
Such genuine applause.

Oh, there are prides of various kinds
That come to one and all,
And one's the pride a parent finds
Who watches children small.

If boy or girl of his is in
The school play's lengthy show,
That parent shows the proudest grin
That grownups ever know.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

THE DAY HE CAME...

By EDITH A. JOHNSON
Housewife, Portland, Oregon

It was Palm Sunday, 1954, and we were supposed to be celebrating the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem.

But in my mood it seemed we had all come only to take part in the parade, not to celebrate the arrival of Christ. I utterly failed to find Him as I entered church that morning.

At a muted rustling in the congregation, I glanced up and saw everyone turn to watch the arrival of the two most influential members of the congregation.

One was a well-known senator, noted for his fine oratory, his many charities, and for his faculty of organizing work in the Episcopal Church. The other was the editor of our city's most important newspaper. Though slight and quiet, he was a man of immense power.

One Empty Seat
They sat down together. Then I noticed that the church was completely full, except for one additional seat next to the senator and the editor.

The minister's voice echoed through the church, and the service began. The organ pealed forth a hymn, and the white-robed choir started its procession down the aisle. We arose and joined them in song, but even the soaring majesty of the hymn left me empty.

And then, as the choir passed, I saw old Tom Smith. He was coming down the aisle all by himself, looking for a place to sit.

He could shuffle only a few feet at a time. He walked with two canes. His small, shrunken body was only the ghost of the body that paralytic had been his, if paralytic had not struck.

Just Smiled
Lately his vocal chords had been attacked. It was difficult to understand him when he spoke; so Tom just nodded pleasantly to people or flashed his famous smile.

Old Tom was a faithful attendant at church. He usually arrived early. Today, for some unknown reason, he was late.

I watched him creep slowly down the aisle in the wake of the choir. He was looking around for a seat when he spotted the place next to the august two.

Tom stepped towards the pew. The senator and the editor squeezed together and made room for him. Tom smiled his thanks.

The service went on. Finally the Communion supper began. The congregation made its way down the aisle to the Communion table. Even I, with sacrilege in my heart, dared to walk up to the altar rail.

A Prayer
I arrived just ahead of the editor and the senator. I made my lowly obeisance, crossed my hands in ritual, and received the holy wafer and the consecrated wine.

I found myself praying, "Oh Father, let me believe. Let me find Your Spirit somewhere in this church today."

Tears dropped on my hands. But it was as if a curtain were between me and God. I still felt desolate and lost, and I hurried back to my seat.

The congregants seated themselves quietly as they returned, awaiting the final call to prayer. I looked across the aisle, and next to the senator and the editor, I saw old Tom Smith. He was not seated like the rest of us. He was kneeling, with his poor little misshapen legs pressed on the hard bench.

Couldn't Go Forward
I realized suddenly that he could not go forward to receive Communion. But he knelt anyhow, as if he were at the altar rail. Before the minister proceeded to

Crash-Lands On Golf Course; Hurt

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — A New Hampshire pilot was injured Thursday when he crash-landed his plane on a suburban golf course after running low on gas during rainy weather.

The pilot, Edmund Allard, 39, of Manchester, N. H., suffered head cuts and a sprained back. His wife, Florence, 39, and two youths aboard the plane were not hurt. The boys were Andre Provost, 19, of Manchester, and Richard Douchet, 16, of Bedford, N.H.

The twin propellers of the plane were bent and its undercarriage was caved in when the aircraft set down on the Overbrook Golf Club fairways in Radnor Township.

Allard told police the group was flying to Florida when the plane fell behind schedule and became lost because of poor visibility.

TO GO FURTHER INTO PAYOFFS AT SCRANTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rack-

ets probers said Friday they will explore more deeply into alleged payoffs to Teamsters Union officials in Scranton, Pa.

One question intriguing them is whether—if you can't jail them both—the giver or the taker of a payoff should be prosecuted.

The Justice Department has obtained federal indictments accusing three business agents of Scranton Teamsters Local 229 of receiving illegal payoffs from business firms. The Senate committee, conducting the inquiry has ordered its staff to ask why no charges were brought against any of the companies or their officials.

Replies Turn Up
"We are going to find out why they were not prosecuted," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told reporters. "It is something we ought to find out."

In reply to a question, he said, "It might be the subject of an investigation."

Meantime, replies to some of McClellan's questions came from outside the hearing.

A pragmatic explanation came from Oliver Dibble, the special federal prosecutor in charge of the Scranton case.

Penn State Drubs Bullets 13-2 On Walks, Miscues; Lafayette Here Wednesday

Unbeaten Penn State took full advantage of some shoddy Bullet defensive play and a total of 13 bases on balls from three Gettysburg College hurlers to win its fourth straight baseball game here Friday afternoon 13-2. The Bullets were charged with seven miscues. The defeat was the fourth straight for Gettysburg (1-4-1).

It was a tight game for four innings but then the Lions pounded over three runs in the fifth and scored in each successive inning to win handily.

Penn State tallied a run in the second on an error and double by Carl Emery, Lion hurler. The Bullets knotted it in their half of the same frame on a single by Larry Liedel. Harry Binger's sacrifice and an infield miscue.

Bullets Take Lead
Frank Capitani's triple and Liedel's single put the locals in front 2-1 in the last of the third.

Penn State suddenly erupted for four hits against John Schleicher in the top of the fifth. Jim Lockerman tripled and scored on a wild pitch. Don Strickler singled after which Jack McMullen made the second out on a strikeout. Guy Tirabassi singled and Ron Rainey doubled home both runners.

A walk to Emery and triple by Bob Hoover in the top of the sixth eliminated Schleicher and brought on Leroy Bream as the Gettysburg moundman. Hoover scored on Lockerman's fly to left.

3 Without Hit
The Lions added three more runs in the seventh without benefit of a hit. Three walks, a pair of errors, two stolen bases and a passed ball turned the trick.

A walk, double by Stickler and a wild pitch added two more Lion runs in the eighth. Lefty Biser tossed the final frame for Gettysburg and gave up the visitors' final tallies on two walks, a fielder's choice and an error.

Emery, Penn State hurler, whiffed nine and walked four and improved as the game progressed. He allowed only two hits after the third inning, a single by Binger in the sixth and another by Scolia in the ninth.

Next week the Bullets have three home engagements. Lafayette will be here Wednesday, Georgetown on Friday and Dickinson on Saturday.

DON JANUARY LEADS AT VEGAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P) — The $40,000 Tournament of Champions swung into the crucial stage today with a newcomer, Don January of Texas, leading the pack into the third round of play.

January hit a $6,000 jackpot in winning the rich Dallas Centennial last year, which qualified him for this springtime fixture.

Now he's pointing toward a $10,000 plum here and his 7-under par 65 in the second round put him in the forefront today with a 36-hole score of 143. Par is 36-36-72.

Two strokes separated him from his nearest rivals. They were Jimmy Demaret, with 73-72; Arnold Palmer, with 72-73, and Billy Casper Jr., from Chula Vista, Calif., another newcomer to the touring pro ranks, who had 75-70. All were tied at 145.

Gene Littler of San Diego, winner in 1955 and 1956, was at 146 with a pair of 73s.

Cary Middlecoff, the pre-tournament favorite, was alone at 147, with rounds of 75-72.

Finn Risks World Title In Marathon

BOSTON (P) — Veikko Karvonen of Finland was ready to risk his standing as the world's No. 1 active marathoner today in the 61st Boston AA race.

Owner of a remarkable marathon record, the 31-year-old postal clerk is tops in the field since the retirement of Emil Zatopek and Jim Peters and was out to prove it at the noon, EST, start for the BAA.

Karvonen's remarkable ability to conquer all kinds of weather was expected to play an important role. The weather forecast called for temperatures to rise to the lower or mid 70s.

America's hope, Johnny Kelley, plus the three Japanese, three Koreans and Finnish teammate Olavi Manninen disliked the mercury's climb.

BILL HARTACK HAS WAY WITH RACE HORSES

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla. (P) — The day before Bold Ruler beat Gen. Duke a neck in Hialeah's rich Flamingo, Bill Hartack had won the fifth, sixth and seventh races with Snobbish, Salmon and Skipper Bill, respectively.

Between the trio of horses they had had 11 starts for the year and only one third place finish. Hartack never had ridden these horses. In fact, he had never seen them until he got to the paddock.

How does he account for his success with horses new to him? Is it that he gets mounts only when a trainer figures his horse is ready?

"I have no explanation for it," says the 24-year-old native of Black Lick, Pa. "All horses have different characteristics. You've got to try to fit yourself to the horse."

Horses Different
"It comes to you as soon as you get on his back. You can't put your finger on it. There are a lot of little things that the horses do. You've got to try to figure things out when you parade to the post."

Hartack, who led the nation's jockeys the last two years and rode 1,433 winners in four full years of riding is a strong whip rider.

"I hit very low," says the boy they called Willie when he finished second in winners to Willie Shoemaker in 1953, his first full year in the strappings. "Few people see me hit a horse. That's because I swing low but low. I use the whip left-handed except thought the stretch."

Father Coal Miner
Hartack, who set a record by winning $234,955 in purses with 347 winners, 252 seconds, 184 thirds and a few fourths in 1956, got his chance to ride because his father worked in coal mines.

Jockey agent Amy Bruno, whose dad mined with Papa Hartack, suggested Bill become a rider when the Navy rejected him because of his size.

He rode his first winner Oct. 14, 1952, at Waterford Park, Va. He figures he will be riding his biggest winner if Gen. Duke takes the Kentucky Derby on May 4.

In the Flamingo, Gen. Duke was 12 lengths off the pace at the quarter-mile pole. At that spot, the Duke was nine lengths behind Bold Ruler, the ultimate winner.

In the Florida Derby at Gulfstream it was different. Hartack hustled the slow-starting son of Bull Lea. Wistful, kept the colt close to the pace and won going away by a length and a half.

PIERSALL'S MARK HOLDS
BOSTON (P) — Jim Piersall, fleet center fielder for the Boston Red Sox, still is proud of the hitting record he tied on June 10, 1953. He made six straight base hits to tie the American League record for consecutive hits in a nine-inning game. One of the hits was a double, the rest singles. No major league has made six straight hits since Piersall's feat. Thirty-two other big leaguers accomplished the feat before Jim had his hot day.

BURDETTE HAS HIS DANDER UP OVER TEBBETTS

MILWAUKEE (P) — Lew Burdette really has his dander up against Birdie Tebbetts in the latest development of their spitball feud that has reached the desk of Warren Giles, National League president.

"I'm no spitballer and I'm no cheat," said the Milwaukee Braves righthander in retorting yesterday to the charge made by the manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs Thursday after Burdette had shutout the Redlegs 1-0.

"I don't like the idea of a guy calling me a cheat," said Burdette who up to now has laughed off Tebbetts' assertions that Burdette throws the illegal spitter 25 per cent of the time.

"Baseball Is Bigger"

"That's carrying a thing too far. He's stirring up a big stink that isn't going to do him or me any good. I don't mind him squawking about it, but if he's going to stir up a lot of trouble, I think he's going a little too far."

"I don't want just a little thing between Birdie and me spreading out so far as the commissioner's office or the league president. That's a lot of hokey."

"Baseball is bigger than Birdie and I."

Need Clarification

The dispute centers on Burdette's habit of reaching to his mouth before he pitches.

Burdette said, "The rule (8.02) doesn't say you can't go to your mouth. It says you aren't allowed to apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball or rub it on your uniform. Well, I don't do any of those things."

"The rule," Tebbetts said, "does not say anything about rubbing your fingers off about wetting them. I want a clarification of that rule, so we'll know what you can do and what you can't."

The request for clarification was made yesterday when Gabe Paul, Redlegs general manager, delivered the official protest to Giles in Cincinnati.

TED ADVISES ON 2-STRIKE PITCH

By TED WILLIAMS

BOSTON (P) — I cannot stress too much the importance of getting a good ball to hit. They say I'm fussy as a hitter. I try to swing at only strikes.

Up to two strikes, if a pitch fools you, take it. Don't swing at it. But after two strikes you must concede to the pitcher and choke up a little on the bat.

And don't try to pull the ball. Just try to meet the pitch when you have two strikes.

Get a bat that you will be able to handle. A heavy bat is useless if you can't handle it.

Make sure you have the plate covered with the bat. Protect the plate and the strike zone.

The stance you take is up to yourself. No two hitters are built alike. Take a comfortable stance at the plate and be ready for the pitcher's best pitch.

JORDAN CHIEF OF STAFF QUILTS

AMMAN (P) — Gen. Ali Hayari resigned today as Jordan's army chief of staff, informed sources said, and a new government crisis may be brewing.

Hayari was appointed only two days ago to succeed pro-Egyptian Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, who left the country after the recent political crisis.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the report but reliable informants said Hayari's successor probably will be Gen. Habis Majali or Gen. Sadek Shareh, both now deputy chiefs of staff.

(The Damascus newspaper Al Raity said Hayari quit in protest against the new Jordan government's policies. It predicted several Cabinet ministers in the government formed Monday by Premier Hussein Fakhr al-Khalidi would quit soon, too.)

Informal sources in Damascus said Gen. Hayari has arrived in Syria and that the Syrian Cabinet was called into special session to consider the events. Gen. Hayari conferred with high Syrian officials soon after his arrival, these informants said.)

Cuts All Power

Just before the wheels touched, Mittendorf cut all engine power and switched off all lights, to lessen the possibility of fire.

For several thousand feet, the plane rolled on two wheels, while ambulances and fire trucks screamed in pursuit. Then it nosed over, its tail tilted toward the sky.

An hour later Captain Mittendorf, unshaken, taxied another — with 38 passengers aboard — out to another Love Field runway, and took off for Kansas City.

THORNS IN THE END ZONE

Heated Charges

Manager Birdie Tebbetts, left, of Cincinnati, charged Thursday that Lew Burdette, right, of the Milwaukee Braves, "is a cheating spitballer." Burdette's reaction was one of amusement. (AP Wirephoto)

16-YEAR-OLD SEEN AS NEXT BIG NET STAR

By ROBERT HUNT

ST. LOUIS (P) — Charles McKinley, a 16-year-old high school sophomore, moves into the junior field this year after picking off three of the four national boys' titles in just three years of "serious tennis."

The St. Louis County youth, whose coach calls him "potentially as good as anybody in the country," won the Boys' national indoor singles title and teamed with Martin Riessen of Hinsdale, Ill., to take both the indoor and outdoor doubles crowns in 1956.

He lost to Ray Senkowski of Hamtramck, Mich., in his quest for the 1956 outdoor singles title. The boys division has a 15-year age limit.

Aggressive Player

"Chuck's aggressiveness, service and overhead shots are his big points," says Bill Price, veteran tennis pro who has coached McKinley since Charles took up the game. "He's potentially as good as anybody in the country."

McKinley started playing tennis after a session of table tennis at the YMCA, where Price was the instructor. This was in 1953, but Chuck says he's been playing "serious tennis" for just three years.

The 140-pound 5-foot-6 McKinley plans to keep working on his game and this year, in the junior division, he probably will meet a fellow townsman — Earl Buchholz, 17, who holds the junior indoor title after winning boys' crowns earlier in his career.

"I like to play the net," Chuck says, "but that's kinda tough when you get up against good players."

Drills Twice Weekly

Young McKinley, who last winter played basketball for Pattonville High School, keeps his court game in shape by tennis workouts twice a week.

"He almost works too hard at the game," Price says. "The trick is to keep from playing too much."

McKinley, who has two sisters and one younger brother, hopes to be able to earn a college scholarship through his tennis "and maybe make something else out of it after that."

Price, who's seen most of the young tennis players of the nation in action, says this about McKinley:

"If I had to pick the three best players of the future, they'd be McKinley, Buchholz and Bobby Siska of San Francisco."

Will Go Well

Says Kellner: "I think Bobby can be a starter for the Yankees. He'll go pretty well. He'd rather start than relieve. He can do both pretty well. As long as he feels he can go the distance I think he can. He probably will pitch a few innings for the Yankees in relief, then pitch a few more. And if some starting pitcher in Stengel's rotation runs into trouble I feel certain Bobby will get the starting chance he wants. And once he becomes a starter look out. He'll take somebody's job."

Shantz pitched in six games against major league foes in Florida this spring and he came through in fine style each time. His best stint was five innings in which he blanked hard-hitting Cincinnati. He was put on exhibition for 18½ innings, gave 17 hits but only three runs. And Casey Stengel showed him to American Leaguers only once. That was on April 7 when Shantz went two scoreless frames against the Boston Red Sox.

Casey must be expecting big things from the little lefty who is one of those first-on-the-field-last-to-leave fellows.

Six New Managers In Western League

PUEBLO, Colo. (P) — Six new managers are pilots in the class A Western League for the 1957 season.

The new baseball skipper are Henry (Nick) Cullip, Albuquerque, N. M.; Ed Beckman, Amarillo, Tex.; Lou Stringer, Des Moines, Iowa; Ken Landenberger, Sioux City; Ira Hutchinson, Colorado Springs, and Red Smith, Topeka.

The two holdovers in the eight club circuit are Ray Hathaway of the Pueblo Dodgers and Lary Shepard of the Lincoln Chiefs.

This will be Hathaway's fourth season as manager of the Dodgers.

KELLNER SEES BOBBY SHANTZ AS N.Y. STARTER

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

It may take Manager Casey Stengel and Jim Turner, his Yankee pitching coach, a little time to learn for sure just how much Bobby Shantz is going to help the world champions this season.

If they could talk with members of the Kansas City Athletics — the team that dealt Shantz to the Yankees in February — here would be no doubt about the 140-pound 5-foot-6 southpaw who five years ago was the most valuable pitcher in the American League.

Shantz is fit and ready to pitch regularly. Says Jim Ewell, Kansas City trainer who has treated Shantz the last two years:

Series Of Mishaps

"Shantz couldn't throw in 1955. He had torn deltoid (shoulder) muscles. We used different diathermy machines. He won only five games but he pitched some good ones."

"In 1956 he fell off the mound in Kansas City and pulled a muscle in his right side. But he had no trouble at all with his shoulder. In Yankee Stadium he hurt his arm in fielding a bunt, but it turned out to be his crazy bone. Last year he could throw but Lou Boudreau (Kansas City manager) only relieved with him. This year Lou had planned to start him regularly. I know. This figures to be Bobby's good year."

Before the Athletics broke camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., pitcher Alex Kellner, Shantz's roommate for the last seven years, was asked about the pitcher who in his one inning in the 1952 All-Star game in Philadelphia struck out Whitey Lockman, Jack Robinson and Stan Musial.

Shantz pitched in six games against major league foes in Florida this spring and he came through in fine style each time. His best stint was five innings in which he blanked hard-hitting Cincinnati. He was put on exhibition for 18½ innings, gave 17 hits but only three runs. And Casey Stengel showed him to American Leaguers only once. # BUILDING AND FURNISHING

The Drum: Split Level Appearance

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Seven
Cubage:
House ..... 27,400 Ft.
Garage ..... 3,900 Ft.
Dimensions ..... 53' x 25' (35')

Because the garage is built under the house, the "Drum," today's Home of the Week, has the appearance of a split-level home; it is especially well suited to a sloping site.

Measuring 53' x 25' this house can be built on about an 85' lot. A combination finish . . . of brick and clapboards as in the illustration . . . seems ideal for this style house. Multi-colored roofing can be used to good advantage. And, of course, landscaping adds greatly to the exterior appearance of any house.

A cement walk . . . flagstones would be appropriate, too . . . leads up to the front porchway and entrance. When you open the front door you walk into the entry hall, complete with a good sized coat closet for guests' hats, coats, etc. From this entry hall it's an easy matter to walk to any room in the house.

Central Hallway

The bedrooms and bath are reached by a central hallway while the living room opens right off the entry hall. A short hallway leads from the entry hall to the kitchen; the dining room opens directly off the kitchen. Thus, there's not a lot of traffic through the center of rooms . . . traffic that in addition to being disturbing brings extra dirt into the rooms.

In this design the master bedroom is unusually attractive as well as large. In addition to two closets . . . one of which is definitely oversized . . . the master bedroom features its own bath. This bath is convenient not only for the occupants of the master bedroom but for the rest of the family as well . . . especially during the early morning rush.

Both the other bedrooms are located in the right wing of the house; each room has good light and ventilation. There are two closets in one of these bedrooms, too. And, although, there is but one closet in the other bedroom it is very large and can certainly take care of the storage needs of the room's occupant.

Has Picture Window

Largest of the rooms, the living room is rectangular in shape. It features a picture window and a fireplace . . . features that add greatly to the decorative interest of the room. No wall divides the living room from the dining room so that there is one large unbroken area that gives the impression of spaciousness.

Although it is small in size, the kitchen is arranged very compactly and thus contains plenty of counter and storage space. Two windows provide good light and ventilation for the room. Housewives will like the fact that these windows are located over the sink.

The back door opens on a short hall just to the right of the kitchen. Stairs to the basement lead down from this hallway.

Basement Laundry

No room is provided for the laundry in the house proper. Therefore, it must be placed in the basement, preferably under the kitchen. Your heating plant should be installed under the living room. Be sure to provide bulkheads for easy access to the yard from the basement. After your required basement installations are taken care of you'll still have ample space for a recreation room or workshop.

This design is approved by the VA and FHA. Complete blueprints and specifications of the "Drum" are available with a money-back guarantee if for any reason the builder decides not to proceed with building plans.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — It is getting close to that magic date when, by the law of averages, there is practically no danger of a killing frost and we eager gardeners can finally put the seedlings on their own, in the ground.

The law of averages, however, is just what it says. Last year we had a killing frost almost two weeks after the average safe date, and the mortality of tomato and pepper plants alone in my neighborhood was awesome.

Actually, that average "last killing frost" date is just an indication when one can sow tender seeds and tender plants in seed and garden beds. But it should be regarded as a mandatory planting date: many a year I've set my tomato vines, for instance, in the ground over a period as long as a month — and the tomatoes started to ripen on all the vines at just about the same time with no measurable difference in the size. Some gardeners get ahead of the season by purchasing outside seedlings — a good idea if you can get them into the ground without disturbing the delicate root system.

Easier Job

In making a final move which takes the seedlings from cold-frame to vegetable plot or flower bed, the gardener who grows his plants from seed has an easier job than the one who buys seedlings. The former can proceed at his own pace, and select carefully the plants he wants to transplant.

If, however, you have neither time, inclination nor proper space for home-grown seedlings, be a real fuss-budget about ones you buy. Look them over carefully. Pick stocky rather than spindly plants. Keep away from those with yellowing leaves or spots. And remember that small plants suffer less shock in moving.

Have the garden ready to receive the plants before you set out on a buying spree, and waste not a second getting them into the ground. Sunshine and drying wind, particularly if they reach the exposed roots, can be fatal. Always keep as much moist soil as possible around the roots, and go shopping with a container lined with moist burlap and another moist burlap blanket to wrap around the roots.

Set Apart

Set the plants at correct, uniform distances apart. Dig each hole as you set the plant in — not a row of holes. Set the plant with the crown unburied, or with the roots at approximately the same level they were before transplanting. Make certain there are no air pockets under or around the roots and firm the soil well but gently. Water the plant thoroughly and cover the wet soil with a handful of dry top soil, compost or leafmold, to act as a mulch. Stake the plants when you plant them if they are going to need support later. Shade them with a bushel basket, flower pot or newspaper screen for a couple of days, and give them plenty of water as they are adjusting to new positions.

Recently, Purina research workers asked poultry staff men in 9 leading poultry states to estimate the total amount of feed required—on the average—to grow a pullet in their states. Shown here is the average of the figures they supplied, compared with Purina feed requirements based on records of thousands of pullets raised at the Purina Research Farms.

FEED REQUIRED TO GROW OUT PULLETS*

here's how to grow 1000 sturdy, big-framed Purina pullets on 2500 pounds less feed

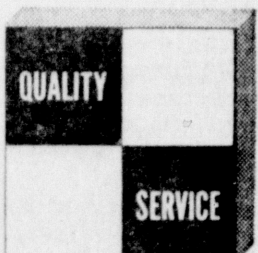

Most poultry raisers recognize that Purina Growing Chows have the quality and ingredients to grow sturdy, big-framed pullets. But not all realize that Purina Chow efficiency often makes it much lower in feeding cost than feeds with cheaper price tags. The comparison in the table above shows the important difference in number of pounds of feed needed to grow out Purina pullets, compared with the average in 9 leading poultry states. Rather than to claim the full amount of saving shown in this comparison, the Purina Research staff rounded off the figures to 2500 pounds less Purina Chow for light breeds, and 4000 for heavy breeds.

This saving of feed increases the feeding value of Purina complete Growing Chow by 60¢ to 80¢ per bag (100 lbs.) . . . or $1.20 to $1.60 a bag extra value for Growing Chow feed with scratch grain.

Thousands of poultrymen have found that they can use high-quality feed . . . and make money doing it. We know this, and we're anxious to show you how you may cut feed cost with your pullets.

Pullet Health Hint—Now, with Purina Liquid Poultry Wormer, you can worm each 100 pullets for less than 25¢! Best time is when they are 10 to 12 weeks old, with a second treatment just before housing if your ranges are used heavily. It takes only one dose in the drinking water. Order Purina Liquid Poultry Wormer right here at the Store with the red-and-white Checkerboard sign.

Use Glyodin!

FOR APPLES

You get more than protection against apple scab and summer diseases by using CRAG Glyodin fungicide. It can help cut mite spray costs, too! One grower saved $1,166 in special mite sprays because Glyodin kept mites from building up in his apple orchard. It suppresses mites, but does not harm beneficial insects that feed on mites. Some commonly-used insecticides tend to be more effective with CRAG Glyodin than with other commonly used fungicides. This help in insect control has been proved in more than 20 tests using several fungicides.

FOR PEACHES

INTERPLANTED with APPLES

Spray your interplanted peaches and control brown rot with the same CRAG Glyodin spray mix that controls scab on apples. You save work and materials and grow better fruit on both interplanted peaches and apples. Virginia Experiment Station also includes Glyodin as part of the spray schedule for the control of bacteriosis of peaches.

FOR RED TART
CHERRIES

When you spray cherries with CRAG Glyodin, it covers foliage well and sticks tight through rains to give excellent control of leaf spot. CRAG Glyodin contains no copper — you get no copper ring injury. It helps keep trees healthy with green leaves that stay on until late fall. CRAG Glyodin costs the least for leaf spot control — and returns the most. Growers report larger, sweeter cherries that grade better. Cannery says cherries pit better.

NO OTHER fruit fungicide gives you so many advantages at such low cost — on apples, 75¢ per 100 gallons of early spray and 54¢ per 100 gallons of cover spray. It pays to use CRAG Glyodin. Order now!

BUILDING AND REPAIR

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG
The Associated Press

The dictionary defines a patio as "a house or building area open to the sky."

Presumably, then, if you put a roof on it, the patio becomes something else... just what, we don't know. But whatever it becomes, the transformation occurs thousands of times over every year as more and more Americans move along with the trend toward increased outdoor living.

A patio roof is something you can build yourself. In some areas you may have to obtain a building permit to make even this small addition to your house, but this would have to be done even if a professional were hired.

Many Types

There are several different types of framework that can be constructed to support the roof, with even more variations in the kinds of materials that can be used as the covering. The framework we're going to discuss now will support any kind of roof material. In addition, it will do for a carport or a storage area or even as the first step in the eventual construction of an enclosed porch.

So that we can be a little specific about dimensions, let's assume that the patio you wish to cover is 12 feet long by 8 feet wide, a fairly average size, and that the floor is made of concrete or some other form of masonry.

Three posts will be necessary to support the front end of the roof; that is, the part of the roof that will be farthest from the house. These posts should be 4x4s and should be placed in the ground just outside the paved part of the patio. The posts should be sunk in concrete, being sure that, at the very least, the part that is in the ground is soaked with a wood preservative. You will be even wiser to coat every bit of wood that goes into the frame with a preservative, using the colorless type if you desire to maintain the natural appearance of the wood.

7-Foot Clearance

The front end of the roof should be at least 7 feet from the patio floor. In buying the 4x4s, remember to allow for the distance the posts will go into the ground plus the thickness of the floor. The posts must be set into the ground at least 2 feet... and more in areas where there is much frost.

Your lumber yard or building supply dealer can advise you about this. Let's say the thickness of the masonry floor is 4 inches and you are going to set the posts into the ground to a depth of 2½ feet. That's a total of 2 feet, 10 inches which, added to 7 feet, makes a total of 9 feet, 10 inches. The 4x4s, therefore, must be at least that long. If you buy 10-footers, set them into the ground to a depth of 2 feet, 8 inches instead of the originally-planned 2½ feet, 6 inches. You then will not have to cut the posts, and you'll still have a roof with a front end 7 feet from the paved floor.

Allow For Slope

A long 2x4... in this case, 12 feet long... must be attached horizontally to the house to support the back end of the roof. Since allowance must be made for a slope that will permit drainage, this attachment is made at a point on the house at least 8 feet from the ground. A 2x6 is run across the three vertical posts which are set into the ground... and more 2x6s are placed at right angles to it and the house, forming the rafter section of the framework. In measuring how long these rafters should be, a couple of inches should be allowed for an overhang. Some cross braces—small pieces of 2x4s—are used between the rafters for added strength.

Simple Construction

This is the simplest kind of framework construction, yet it will be fully satisfactory no matter what kind of roof material is put on over it. Two precautions must be observed. First, make a sketch of what the completed framework will look like, ignoring its artistic merit as long as you can understand it. This will enable you to see ahead of time whether, and where, any notches have to be cut in the lumber for secure joints. And secondly, use the strongest

The Weeders Guide

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. (AP)—Two years ago a new home owner of my acquaintance bought himself a new rotary blade power lawn mower. Actually, he needed a few reel type mower, for his lawn was trimming and there was neither rough terrain nor high weeds to eliminate. But he bought the rotary type primarily, I am certain, because there was a "mulching" attachment with it.

My friend was seized with mulching fever, an infectious disease acquired from reading too many garden books. I know: one season long ago I was, I suspect, from my bills, the world's largest individual consumer of peat moss. At onset, you want to cover all open ground with a blanket of some sort.

I am not against mulching, mind you, but highly in favor of it. A mulch is a material spread upon gardening soil (including lawns) for the purpose of protecting plants and roots which might be damaged by cold weather; for use during the growing months to conserve moisture in the ground and to reduce the amount of weeding necessary in the average unmulched garden.

Popular Moss

Mulches range from plastic sheets to grass clippings. In between are such materials as stones, chopped corn cobs, sawdust, tobacco stems, hulls of cotton seed, buckwheat and other grains, straw, salt hay and, of course, the most popular of all, peat moss. Peat is probably the most popular for the home gardener because it makes the prettiest garden. It is a rich, red brown in color and when damp makes a handsome background for the green plants.

If you want a work-saving, water-saving mulch around plants, investigate first. Peat, for instance, is on the acid side, and consequently is best used among acid-loving plants. Ground corn cobs and sawdust have a tendency to deplete the nitrogen in soil—so if they are used, add a pound of nitrate of soda or three-quarters of a pound of ammonium sulphate per bushel. Grass clippings, buckwheat hulls and some others may be dug in later to further enrich soil; salt hay may not be dug in, but should be raked away and stored for use another day.

One Inch Thick

Generally speaking, an organic mulch (this excludes plastic sheets—new on the home-gardener marfasteners that will do the job... not the kind that are easiest to use.

ker this year—and stones) should be about an inch thick. This will discourage the germination of weed seeds but permit air and moisture to reach the root systems of desirable plants.

Gardeners in the northern two-thirds of the nation should start spraying regularly, particularly plants subject to infestation, like lupine which is attractive to plant lice and golden glow to which red spider fleas.

Southern gardeners should spray or dust roses at 10-day intervals or whatever schedule is recommended on the spray label.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. (AP)—Like good parents, gardeners who raise plants are vitally concerned with nutrition and environment.

Nutrition, of course, involves the provisioning of the garden and the lawn, making certain the growing medium—the soil—contains food elements which the plants may utilize and thrive upon.

The environment concerns the soil, too, but it also means water and light, for no plant can long survive even if there are plenty of potential foodstuffs around it if there is not also water present in sufficient—but not excessive—quantities to deliver that food. Healthy plants also must be situated where they receive the amount of sunshine they require. Many plants require full sun; a few full shade.

Plants are so thirsty it seems remarkable that the gentle sprinkle has become the popular garden accessory it is. Botanists estimate that a plant annually uses an amount of water equal to 400 times its dry weight. For example, one snapdragon utilizes some 50 quarts of water in a season. A moderately large tree drinks 50 gallons of water daily in growing season, and when there are many plants crowded together, they are all competing for this critical water supply.

Top Moisture Dries

Only moisture in the top few inches of soil dries out from evaporation. Below this top-soil

Home Garden Melons Need Lots Of Food, Water

It is a proud home gardener who can feast his friends on sweet muskmelons or watermelons grown in level lies the water from which all but the shallow-rooted plants draw their water. The hose and the sprinkler are important in refilling the top-soil reservoir of water; snow and rain replenish the underground reserves.

Many of the common garden plants reach deep down for this moisture. Tomato vines sometimes dig six feet into subsoil in quest of water, peas four feet. Even those plants called "shallow-rooted," like lettuce and sweet corn, go down a couple of feet.

Drain Excess Water

Too much water is as fatal to plants as too little. If the soil becomes saturated with water, it pushes out the air, and plants suffocate. Therefore, lawns and gardens must have drainage which will pull away excess moisture. This may be achieved by grading, by trenching, by laying drainage lines of gravel and agricultural tile. It is easiest and most economically done before lawns are started and garden beds marked out.

Gardeners in the northern two-thirds of the nation should be ready to prepare the soil for planting, remembering that it can be worked when a handful is dry enough to crumble in the hand... dig over areas of the lawn to be patched and allow soil to settle before seeding... clean up bulb beds before growing tips can be injured in the mulch-re-mooving process... start a new compost pile.

Southern gardeners should set out tender annuals as soon as the weather has settled... put out all types of vegetables... cut back old perennials and burn the stalks if there is any danger of disease.

Watermelons Contain Less Water Than Asparagus or Lettuce

his own garden. Melons and squash are usually the last vegetables sown in the spring, as they require warm weather from start to finish.

A light, well drained soil, lots of water and more plant food than you are accustomed to use on other vegetables pay off especially well with the melons. The vines of squash and muskmelons can be grown as climbers, provided large fruits are supported. A mesh bag such as often used for fruits in supermarkets provides a good support.

With melons the time required from seed sowing to maturity will determine the variety you sow. Muskmelons take from 80 to 100 days, watermelons from 75 to 100 days. Seed cannot be sown until at least a week after the frost-proof date when the ground is thoroughly warm. If nights continue cold it may be desirable to protect seedling plants with waxed paper tents at first.

Grown In Hills

Both muskmelons and watermelons are usually grown in hills, which may be as close together as three feet each way, in small gardens. Such close spacing is likely to reduce the size of the fruits, and more room should be given where possible.

Heavy fertilizing pays well. As much as a pint of balanced plant food may be mixed well with the soil beneath each hill several days before the seed is planted. Or use a shovel of well rotted manure, and half a pint of plant food. Sow ten seeds to the hill and thin out to the two strongest plants that develop.

Do not harvest watermelons or muskmelons until they are ripe, as they improve in flavor very little after they are picked. It takes some study to determine when a watermelon is ripe, without "plugging" it. Thumping is one test, ripe melons giving a dead flat sound, green ones a ringing sound. The color of the spot where the melon lay on the ground usually changes from greenish white to yellow as it ripens.

When Melon Is Ripe

A muskmelon is ripe when it parts from the vine with a gentle pull, and the characteristic odor of a ripe melon is noticeable. When ripe melons are not sweet, a lack of sunshine during the growing season is usually at fault. Cool, wet summer weather is not what the melons need; but hot, dry weather with lots of water supplied by the gardener.

Squash are not so demanding as melons, though some are just as sweet. Italian marrows, which produce mature fruits weighing pounds, are delicious when a few days old. You can select your squash from many different types, maturing in 60 days and others 100 days. Many are splendid winter keepers, and sweeter than melons when properly cooked.

Preventable? Yes, with KARATHANE WD

Powdery mildew infections such as you see here can kill many blossoms, reduce fruit set, cause russetting, and infect fruit buds. All this can be prevented, and without harm to blossoms, fruit or foliage, by using KARATHANE WD as recommended. In orchards with a history of powdery mildew, you can keep the infection from spreading by spraying KARATHANE fungicide from pre-bloom until the new terminal growth is completed. Other orchards should be sprayed at the first sign of the disease. These sprays will also suppress mite populations. Since mildew infections are hard to wet, be sure to add TRITON B-1956 spreader-sticker to KARATHANE sprays.

DITHANE, KARATHANE, KELTHANE, RHOthane and TRITON are trade-marks, Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. and in principal foreign countries.

BUILDING AND FARM

County Agent Lists Methods Of Controlling Spittlebug; Details On Sheep Shearing

By FRANK S. ZETTLE
Adams County Farm Agent

Large, luscious strawberries, and a full crop of them, can be produced only by controlling spittlebugs and other insects that attack the plants in the spring. Not only size and quality will be improved but yields of berries may be increased up to 30 per cent by use of insecticides.

The time to apply an insecticide is just after the young hatch and before much spittle appears on the plants. This will vary from mid-April in southern counties to early May in northern Pennsylvania.

Mix two teaspoons of chlordane or heptachlor emulsion, or three tablespoons of chlordane 40 per cent wettable powder or heptachlor 25 per cent wettable powder in one gallon of water and spray the plants thoroughly. Use one gallon of spray to each 25 to 30 feet of row.

For large plantings, use 1 quart of 2-E heptachlor emulsion or 1½ pints of 72 per cent chlordane emulsion in 25 to 100 gallons of water per acre. A 5 per cent chlordane or 2½ per cent heptachlor dust may be substituted for the spray. Use 30 to 40 pounds of dust per acre. In gardens, use 4 ounces of the 5 per cent dust to each 30 feet of row.

The small, orange-yellow nymphs of the spittlebug start appearing around the crown of the plant in April. A very close examination of the plant is necessary to detect them when they first appear. A few days later small particles of foamy-like spittle begin to appear on the stems and leaves. As the nymphs grow, they turn to a greenish yellow color and the spittle mass which surrounds them, increases in size. During June, they complete their development and become mottled-brown, wedge-shaped hoppers, which are a little larger than a grain of wheat.

Soybeans-Sorgo For Silage
A soybean-sorgo mixture is used by many Pennsylvania farmers for silage and is increasing in popularity. This mixture should not be grown on soils that are subject to washing, unless planted in contour strips, alternating with strips of winter grain or hay.

A soybean-sorgo mixture may follow corn in place of oats or wheat and in some instances it may be desirable or necessary to follow a hay sod. Mixture can be followed by wheat, if stubble is thoroughly disked for a good seedbed.

The recommended soybean varieties for southeastern Pennsylvania is Wabash or Black Wilson. Recommended sorgo variety is Atlas for southeastern Pennsylvania.

A fine, firm seedbed is necessary for a uniform depth of planting soybeans. Plow seeds intended for a soybean-sorgo mixture in the fall or early spring. If the mixture follows a winter cover crop, such as rye-grass, plow in early spring. Ideal time to plant is about May 15 to June 15. Drill soybeans like small grain, then broadcast the sorgo and follow by cultipacking in direction beans were drilled.

Recommended seeding rates are one and one half bushels of soybeans and 30 pounds of sorgo per acre. Inoculation of the soybeans just before planting is essential for high-yield results. Test soil for lime requirement for soybeans do not do well on an acid soil.

Adequate fertilization of crops preceding soybeans is most profitable but sorgo responds to a complete mixed fertilizer. Broadcast and plow under, or broadcast after plowing and thoroughly disk in: 500 to 700 lbs. per acre of 10-10-10 or equivalent depending upon past soil performance. Do not apply at the time the beans are drilled.

Cut a soybean-sorgo mixture for silage when the sorgo seed is in the hard dough stage. The field chopper is the ideal machine for harvest. The stand should be approximately 50 per cent soybeans and 50 per cent sorgo. No preservative is needed for the high sugar content of sorgo is favorable to fermentation.

Shearing Time Is Here
Sheep shearing time is here. If good feeding and management practices have been followed there should be a good crop of wool on the ewe flock. Do everything possible to maintain this quality at shearing time.

Following practices at shearing time are listed to help to insure a top quality wool clip:

1. Shear early, and have all sheep shorn by the middle of May. Early shearing helps to maintain the wool quality, and lambs will do better. Ewes will be more comfortable, graze more freely, and milk better. Provide shelter after early shearing. It is not necessary to confine the ewes for they will take advantage of the shelter on rainy, cold days.
2. Be sure sheep are dry when they are shorn.
3. Shear on a clean, dry floor.
4. Remove all manure locks and other foreign matter before rolling up the fleece.
5. Roll fleece with clean skin side out.
6. Tie wool with paper wool twine.
7. Store wool in a clean dry place until it is taken to market.
8. If sheep are shorn by commercial shearers, plan to be present at shearing time, for this sometimes helps to maintain quality.
9. Shearing time is ideal to treat for internal parasites.
10. Spray or dip for external parasites 10 days to two weeks after shearing.

Do's and Don'ts Flowering Window Boxes Bring House New Lustre

DO . . . know that leaks through brickwork are usually caused by crumbling mortar between the bricks, although occasionally very old bricks become porous enough to admit water in protracted rainy periods.

DO . . . remove loose mortar with a cold chisel and hammer, tapping gently so as not to disturb any of the solid mortar or damage the bricks themselves.

DO . . . get all loose mortar out of the joint, soak the area thoroughly (preferably with some kind of sprayer) and apply a ready-mixed mortar or one part of portland cement, one part of hydrated lime and three parts of fine sand with just enough water to make a workable mixture.

DO . . . apply the mortar with a pointing trowel, filling the opening flush with the brick and, after a few minutes, drawing the trowel across the mortar to make a very tiny indentation that will permit water to run off.

Don'ts
DON'T . . . work with a large amount of mortar at a time, as this will result in getting some of the mixture on the face of the bricks.

DON'T . . . neglect when replacing an entire brick, to soak the new brick thoroughly for several minutes as well as to wet down the opening completely.

DON'T . . . forget that, when you suspect that water is making an entry through porous bricks, you can use a waterproofing compound which is applied like paint but will not change the color of the bricks.

DON'T . . . overlook a periodic inspection of all brickwork around a house, making the repairs before water has a chance to move in and cause damage to inside walls and ceilings.

6. Tie wool with paper wool twine.

7. Store wool in a clean dry place until it is taken to market.

8. If sheep are shorn by commercial shearers, plan to be present at shearing time, for this sometimes helps to maintain quality.

9. Shearing time is ideal to treat for internal parasites.

10. Spray or dip for external parasites 10 days to two weeks after shearing.

Diagrammed box can be adapted to any size window.

These go well in window box.

A homey touch from Grandma's day still can make a house a home. Window boxes, their flowers nodding in a soft breeze, are a sign to everyone who passes that inside this home is a family that values beauty and wants to share it with the world.

Woodworking skills aren't needed in making window boxes — just a few basic tools and three or four hours of a weekend afternoon. The rewards far exceed what you put into the job. A bleak-appearing house takes on a new lustre from the color of a window box and a family — particularly children — discover all of the age-old excitement of watching seeds grow into beautiful flowers.

Good Standard Box

The size of the box, of course, depends on the window it's to fit under, but a good standard size is ten inches wide with an 8-inch depth. This makes a box small enough to be easily constructed in a house workshop. The important thing to remember is that a box must be strong and large enough to hold soil and withstand the effects of watering. That means one should construct the box of dampness-resistant wood, such as cypress, white pine and red wood. The boards, for best results, should be not less than an inch thick.

ing the paint under the window.

To support the box, fit wooden or metal brackets around the window sill, running them fully to the front of the box. A porch box can be placed either on the floor or a railing and can be locked in place by whatever means seems most practical. Do not, however, place a box where rain will drip on it from the roof. This could damage the flowers.

Since a porch usually shades its plants, porch boxes are ideal containers for flowers which can't withstand the sun's direct rays. Typical of this category are tuberous rooted begonias and gloxinias.

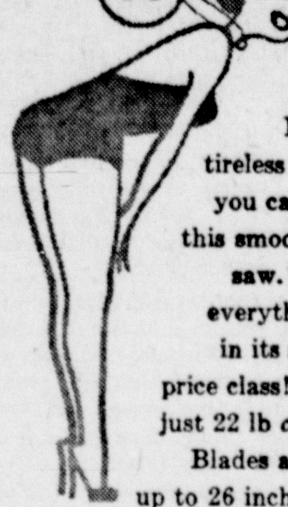

When painting a window box, select a color which blends with the house — either the body color of the house or the trim. In picking your seeds, select those whose colors will harmonize with those of the house and the box.

For the south side of the house, emphasize flowering annuals, which also will flourish on the east and west sides — provided there is no shade. The north side presents a different problem, and it is most adapted to foliage plants, or flowers which grow best in shade. Of this group, caladiums and coleus are a popular selection, as are pansies, violas, impatiens, forgetmenots and dwarf petunias.

Three Burglars Are Shot To Death By 7 Detectives

CHICAGO (AP) — Three burglars were shot to death early Friday in a quick and violent gun battle with seven detectives as they prepared to break open a State Street department store vault containing an estimated $250,000.

The gunmen, including a former policeman, walked into a police trap in Mandel Brothers store and were mowed down by police machine guns and shotgun bullets.

The detectives, who had been hiding in the 11th floor credit department for seven hours after receiving a tip on the planned burglary, escaped unhurt.

Inside the wall safe, said William Touhy, deputy chief of detectives, was "approximately $250,000" in currency. But the gunmen did not get a chance to attempt to open it.

Refuse To Surrender

Lt. James J. Lynch said the three men, carrying burglary tools, were about to attempt to open a safe when the detectives ordered them to surrender.

Lynch said the burglars opened fire. The police, armed with three machine guns and four shotguns, exchanged shots, killing all three.

It was not disclosed how the men gained entrance to the store, in the heart of the Loop.

Lynch identified two of the men as having been arrested previously. He said one of them, Jimmy Rentner, 30, had been released on bond recently on a robbery charge.

He said James Wulf, 28, also had been arrested several times. The third man was identified as James Bertinello.

Bertinello reportedly was carrying a small portable radio which he had tuned to pick up police broadcasts.

May Have Hid In Store

There was no evidence of a forced entry to the store. Officers said the three men could have hidden there after Thursday's 8:30 p.m. closing.

When the three burglars entered the credit department — about 12:30 a.m. — they passed without noticing four detectives crouched in a dark corner.

They went directly to a safe behind the cashier's cage. Sgt. James O'Neill said he fired a warning blast above the burglars' heads. The spray of bullets knocked out the light over the wall safe.

The trapped men then, said O'Neill, returned fire after he had shouted "Police!"

"Hit the dirt," O'Neill commanded the other detectives.

The policemen kept up their firing at the cornered thieves. Walls, ceiling and furnishings were riddled with bullets.

WARNS WEST TO KEEP HANDS OFF

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev cautioned the West last night to keep hands off the Communist world, declaring "we are not saints and if necessary we will rap your knuckles."

Khrushchev gave that warning at a Polish embassy reception. He spoke after Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov said the Moscow-directed Warsaw Pact powers would match any nuclear weapons or guided missiles America provided for its NATO allies.

"We want to warn the capitalist countries, do not joke with us," Khrushchev said. "Do not try to test us like you did in Hungary with the putsch. You think of doing it, not only in Hungary, but also maybe in East Germany. Be careful. We are not saints and, if necessary, we will rap your knuckles."

The reception honored Polish Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz, who stopped off in the Soviet capital en route home from a tour of the Orient.

JUDGE LENIENT IN SENTENCING HOLDUP YOUTH

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One day last winter 20-year-old George Pitcher held up a messenger with a toy pistol on an elevated train and took a $15,000 transit company payroll.

He was so desperate, Pitcher said in court, that he scarcely knew what he was doing, that he had no real nerve to pull a stickup. He had lost his job, his wife was expecting another child, bills were driving him frantic. So when he saw Clifford Shanks, a Philadelphia Transportation Co. courier, sitting on the Frankford elevated, holding two boxes between his legs, Pitcher waved the toy gun he had bought for his little boy, snatched the boxes and fled. He could do that, because all this took place at a station stop.

Two days later Pitcher was arrested. He admitted the holdup. Not a penny of the payroll had been touched.

On March 1 Pitcher was taken before Judge Gerald F. Flood in Quarter Sessions Court and pleaded guilty to robbery. He wept as he did so.

Thursday Pitcher again stood before Judge Flood.

Judge Flood reviewed the case, then said he would take unusual action because of extenuating circumstances. He imposed a sentence of 2½ months to 10 years in prison. Pitcher already has served most of the minimum sentence. He will be eligible for parole and freedom soon.

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Gary Riggs, 3, his faithful collie beside him, was found by searchers yesterday after a four-hour stroll in an area made dangerous by strip coal mine operations.

"Bozo needs a drink," Gary told two Middleport neighbors, who were among 150 persons searching for the missing lad and his collie. The two were found three miles from home.
